25X1 Comment. During the reported period, the Guben border crossing point was not used by the Russians for east-west traffic. Only coal imports from Upper Silesia passed through that station. The imported coal is probably transloaded to barges at Puerstenberg/Oder. The prefabricated houses passing through Guben in a west-east direction were probably reparations deliveries to the U.S.S.R. The hospital train probably carried sick soldiers from the Soviet general hospital in Beelitz. Belzig is south of Beelitz and is the railroad junction nearest to this place.
